Choosing a trainer....There are many types of trainers and types of training for dogs from science-based behavioral training, positive reinforcement training, force training, electric stimulation collar training and more. Classes can range from group to one-on-one lessons. We highly recommend training one-on-one so you, your dog and your trainer of choice get the most out of each session. We also advise when you set up your first or evaluation appointment with a trainer you evaluate the trainer at the same time to make sure what they are suggesting for the course of lessons is what you want from them and for your investment. We advise to check online reviews, ask for references and trust your instincts with any choice you are making when it comes to your dog's care.
